

John's 1000 Hurts Font [DEMO VERSION]
Created by Quick Brown Fox Fonts / Lauren C. Brown
QuickBrownFoxFonts.com

JOHN'S 1000 HURTS
THE QUICK BROWN FOX JUMPS
OVER THE LAZY DOG.

The John's 1000 Hurts handwriting font was scrawled out one evening on a piece of paper by a friend in high school while we sat listening to records. I think it nicely captures high school angst. Since its release (probably in late 2000), I've added several more glyphs, including accent characters.

This is a DEMO version of the font.
It includes only uppercase and lowercase letters.
You can use the demo version for personal use.

My demo fonts may be distributed through any media, as long as this PDF file is included, you are not selling the fonts, and you don't claim them as your own.

Here's how to get the full version:
The full version of the font, which can be purchased very very cheaply at QuickBrownFoxFonts.com, also contains numbers, most punctuation, most accent characters, and many symbols. You can view the full character map at QuickBrownFoxFonts.com.

Purchase of the full version entitles you to a full license of the font, with which you can use the font commercially in any project.

The full versions of the fonts may not be distributed through any media without permission from me.

Whatever you use the font for, I'd love to see what you come up with! Feel free to contact me through my website and tell me about your project.

Thank you kindly!
Lauren C. Brown
QuickBrownFoxFonts.com

This document was last updated on February 13, 2016.